

Visit Brighton competition

A huge thank you and congratulations to Tony Bowall of the Happy House in Hove Arts, who's beautiful canvas 'Beach-huts in the Snow' was the first prize in the VisitBrighton Christmas online visitors competition. The work was won by Brighton resident Paul Bennett and was handed over to him at a presentation arranged by Sarah Baker from VisitBrighton. There were 1,118 entries in the competition - one of the largest ever entry numbers in a VisitBrighton competition, barring those for luxury holiday breaks!

VisitBrighton are delighted by the response and are keen to repeat the competition during the May festival. The competition is a great way to attract new visitors from the VisitBrighton site to the Open Houses.

Many thanks to the other artists who took part and offered work for this, particularly Madeleine Rogers with her cardboard cut-out Christmas Creatures
